

Sirs,

I do not think that the FCC should put in any proposal that has less than Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protection.

I always did let the answering machine answer all my calls before we had Indiana's law in place. I now normally answer all calls.

We used to get at least 10 to 15 calls a day from unknown callers. We now get maybe 1 or 2 for the whole week.

I think that the Indiana law has made my telephone my instrument now and not the tele-marketers.

Thank you.

David E. Griffin